Appendix 1

Below lists particular examples which may assist in determining whether exemption days apply.

Vehicles parked at airport carparks

An IT conference is being held in Sydney. The employee drives to the airport and parks it there for three days (while at the conference).

N.B. This does not include holidays, only business-related trips.

Other days not liable

If the vehicle is broken down or being repaired, the vehicle is exempt from FBT provided is not available to be used for at least 24 hours.

Emergency calls

An IT support company (IT Ltd) has agreed to come in after hours (11pm) to replace the computer terminals and run a software update for a client. An employee of IT Ltd takes a company car (sedan) to the client. They work from 11pm until 5am.

N.B. Employee must be called out for the exemption to apply (not enough to merely be “on call”).
